Ingrid Joerg appointed President of Constellium's Aerospace and Transportation business unit

Amsterdam – June 1, 2015 - Constellium N.V. (NYSE and Euronext: CSTM) today announced the appointment of Ingrid Joerg as President of its Aerospace and Transportation business unit effective June 1, 2015. Ms. Joerg will report to Pierre Vareille, Chief Executive Officer of Constellium.

Ms. Joerg, who previously served as Chief Executive Officer of Aleris Rolled Products Europe, will replace Laurent Musy, who has decided to leave Constellium. Mr. Musy will spend a few weeks with Ms. Joerg before taking a top executive position in a company in another industry.

"Ingrid brings to Constellium a wealth of international experience in the aluminium industry. Her primary focus at the Aerospace and Transportation business unit will be on continuing to improve operational performance and addressing capacity constraints to enable Constellium to benefit from strong demand in the aerospace market," commented Pierre Vareille. "As we welcome Ingrid, I want to warmly thank Laurent Musy, who was a much appreciated member of our management team, for his outstanding contribution to Constellium's success over the years. Laurent is making an important step to advance his career and we wish him all the very best in his new endeavors."

Prior to joining Aleris, Ingrid Joerg held leadership positions with Alcoa where she was president of its European and Latin American Mill Products business unit, and commercial positions with Amag Austria. Ingrid Joerg received a Master's Degree in Business Administration from the University of Linz, Austria.
